

Daniel Berry

Daniel Berry is the CEO of Duke University Federal Credit Union in Durham, N.C. Mr. Berry has held several senior positions with the credit union prior to this current role, including chief operating officer and chief financial officer. He also has experience working with credit unions as a certified public accountant (CPA).

Mr. Berry is currently a member of Vizo Financial's Credit Committee, as well as the National Association of Federal Credit Unions (NAFCU) Regulatory Committee and was even granted the title of NAFCU Professional of the year in 2008. He has served as chair for the Management Association of Carolinas Credit Unions board, as well as treasurer of the Education Credit Union Council board. His past and present appointments also include the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau Credit Union Advisory Council, Credit Union National Association (CUNA) Mutual Financial Solutions Advisory Panel, Latino Community Credit Union Supervisory Committee, Carolina Credit Union Services, North Carolina Council of Credit Union Executives Society (CUES) and Carolinas Credit Union League – Tarheel Chapter.

In his community, Mr. Berry has volunteered with Friedens Lutheran Church, Toastmasters International, Greater Greensboro Chrysler Classic and Greensboro Jaycees.

In addition to his years of credit union experience, Mr. Berry holds both bachelor's and master's degrees in business administration from the College of William and Mary and Duke University, respectively.

Mr. Berry cites his faith in the cooperative spirit, as well as his diverse experiences with credit unions as an executive, credit committee member and former auditor, as reasons for seeking a position with Vizo Financial's board. "I recognize that all of our successes are the culmination of efforts by a number of people. I would utilize these experiences, plus the love of learning/serving as a board member. If honored with the opportunity, I would continue the cause of helping credit unions via the Corporate."
